New PSP leadership: accent on experience

Also elected at the Congress was a political bureau which will supply the basic daily political leadership to the section of the PSP in the United States. Following are the pictures of the members of that bureau.

The new leadership of the PSP in the United States puts the accent on experience. Two of the new members are former Regional Secretaries, usually credited with having developed the apparatuses in both New Jersey and New England. Other new members have been brought into their positions from other areas of work as is the case with the new Secretary of Community Affairs, and the new Secretary of Workers Affairs.

Yet, there is a backbone of people who remain in the same positions and translate their experience of the past period into the reality of further consolidation and growth in the PSP. Following are photos and descriptions of each of the new leaders.
